The Resources and Productions of Morocco.

Under this heading we find, in the Bulletin du Musée, the following interesting facts regarding the above mentioned country, derived from the minutes of the Artistic, Literary, and Scientific Club of Antwerp:

As regards mineral wealth, gold is often found superficially disseminated, united with quartz and limestone, sometimes in grains, but generally in scales. Native silver is obtained in the province of Sulu, with the gold, and also with galena. The Sultan has absolutely forbidden the extraction of either of the above precious metals, and reserves the right for his own benefit; but in spite of the restrictions and severe penalties, the Arabs succeed in stealing large quantities—Copper is very abundant, notably in the suburbs of Tetuan, and Tarragunt; the inhabitants work the mines with great ability, notwithstanding their rude and primitive methods. Iron exists in immense deposits, there being a mountain, Djebel Hadrid, said to be formed entirely of the ore. Lead is found principally in the state of galena, and tin has been discovered in small amounts, both metals being obtained from the mountains of Tetua. Rock salt is derived from the same locality, and large quantities of marine salt are obtained, almost without labor, on the shores of the salt lakes. Niter is also found to a small extent, and a peculiar kind of clay called glaux exists in the northern part of the country, which is largely employed as a substitute for soap.

Gum is exported to Manchester, England, for cloth-printing purposes. In the textile industries, the American agents of the firm furnish a material for the manufacture of cord and various tissues. Attempts made to grow cotton have succeeded, but for some reason have not been continued, the inhabitants preferring to purchase their fabric of this substance from English makers. Wool is probably the staple article of Moorish commerce, amounting to one quarter of the entire export of the country. The best varieties are those of Dan-el-Benda and Bhat, where the French have a monopoly of the industry. Seventy to eighty dollars per 2,200 pounds is the usual selling price of the best wool, of which, with the exception of that used for making the magnificent carpets for which Moorish looms are celebrated and the "haik" or Arab cloak, very little is employed in the country.

Goat skins, under the name of "morocco," are exported all over the world, and serve an innumerable variety of purposes. Within the country, they are employed solely in the manufacture of the peculiar shoes of the people. The skins are sold principally during the months of May and November at from three to six dollars a dozen, according to size.

Leeches, for medical uses, are largely found in ponds between Tangier and Rabat. They are in color either green or black, the latter selling at six dollars and the former at five dollars per thousand; they are forwarded to the markets in boxes of wet sand, containing five thousand each.

The remainder of the productions of the country include ox hides, wax, honey, and ostrich feathers, about a quarter of a million dollars worth of the latter being yearly sold at Mogador.

Kingfishers and Fish.

Mr. Darwin in his last book states that the kingfisher always kills the fish before swallowing it. Dr. Charles C. Abbott, of Trenton, N. J., states that the fish is swallowed without killing and often while on the wing. So far as my observation goes, when a fish is large, or about two and a half inches long, it is killed before being swallowed. I once saw a kingfisher light on a limb close to the surface of the water in a creek; and the bird, having its eye to the business in hand, did not seem to me to be about fifteen feet off; it presently dived into the water and returned to its perch with a fish in its bill, about the above stated length. The bird then began to beat the head of the fish against the limb on which it was standing; after a few beats it would stop to see if the fish was dead or not; this was done three times, when the head of the fish was bleeding, and the limb against which the head was beaten was stained with blood. The fish was dead, and it was then swallowed. Now the above named gentlemen may both to a certain extent be correct. The kingfisher may swallow the small fish without killing them; in my mind there is no doubt that they do. D. D. S.

Old North River Pilots.

An Albany paper gives some interesting information concerning old Hudson River pilots, saying: "The oldest pilot is John Gould, aged eighty-two years. He first went up the river in 1805. He became a pilot in 1814—fifty-nine years ago. He was pilot of the old North America, Capt. Lathrop, who was destroyed by the ice in 1839. Another old pilot is Alexander Wilson, father of Thomas Wilson, who keeps the livery-stable in Steuben street. Capt. Wilson is seventy-three years of age, and first became a pilot, in 1819. He now resides in Lansingburg. The late Allen Seaman first became a pilot in 1829. Before that he was on the ship Volunteer, of Lansingburg. The Volunteer was commanded by Capt. Willard, Seaman's uncle. Another pilot older than Seaman is Capt. John Danbar, of this city. He commenced in 1825, four years earlier than Seaman. Danbar became a steamboat pilot in 1827. Danbar first went on the river in a sloop in 1820, the sloop pilot of the DeWitt Clinton, of Lansingburg. Danbar was the first pilot of the steamboat Victory, launched in this city in 1827. She was commanded by Capt. Gold. In 1828 Capt. Wiswall succeeded Gold. Wiswall died in 1838. The steamer DeWitt Clinton was built to run with the Victory in 1828. Both vessels were built in this city, at the South Ferry. The Victory boats in that year were managed by one-armed Bradt, a leading politician in the lower wards in 1848. Among the commanders of the DeWitt Clinton were Capt. W. H. Wall, Hyatt, Sherman and Roe. The Victory and DeWitt Clinton were owned in Albany, the leading men in the line being Fiddler & Taylor, who long kept the leading brewery in this city. Mayor Taylor died some ten or twelve years since. Mr. Fiddler some thirty years ago changed his name to Howard. We understand that he is still living, in Brooklyn. The Victory and DeWitt Clinton lost money from the start, and soon went to the bad. The property, in 1834, passed into the hands of Robert Dunbar, and was so angered Mr. Fiddler that he 'put a heel' on Dunbar. 'I've got one more gas-urner than any other in the corner of State and Quay streets. Capt. John Danbar, the first pilot of the Victory, is still hale and hearty, and looks as young as ever did. He takes good care of himself, and will probably go out with the century. He resides in East Albany.'

The Rich Ignorant Men of Bangor.

Gen. Hensley, lately elected to congress, is one of the richest men in eastern Maine, is self-made, rather illiterate, and very vain. Not very long ago he built for himself a fine house, which was fitted and finished without regard to expense. Soon after its completion he invited a stranger to see its beauties. 'There,' said he, with glow of honest pride, 'I've got one more gas-urner than any other in the corner of State and Quay streets. Capt. John Danbar, the first pilot of the Victory, is still hale and hearty, and looks as young as ever did. He takes good care of himself, and will probably go out with the century. He resides in East Albany.'

A LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL INFORMATION. THE NEW American Cyclopædia.

Complete in 16 Volumes. This important work presents a panoramic view of all human knowledge, as it exists at the present moment. It embraces and popularizes every subject that can be thought of, and contains an inexhaustible fund of accurate and practical information. No topic, in brief, is omitted, upon which consulting it every day to buy very great advantage. It is a complete universal instructor, and opens a new world of knowledge to the whole of mankind.

It should be owned by every intelligent family in the country.

PRICE AND STYLE OF BINDING. In extra Cloth, per vol., $2.00 In Library Leather, per vol., $2.50 In Half Turkey Morocco, per vol., $2.00

THE ANNUAL CYCLOPÆDIA. Commenced in 1861. TWELVE VOLUMES NOW OUT. The same price per volume, and uniform with the New American Cyclopædia.

PUBLISHED ONE VOLUME ANNUALLY. REGISTERING ALL THE IMPORTANT EVENTS OF EACH YEAR, AND GIVING A SUMMARY OF THE WORK OF REFERENCE.

OPINIONS OF DISTINGUISHED AMERICANS. "No. 17 Arlington St., London, England. 'I thank you for the opportunity of expressing my opinion of the great value of the 'NEW AMERICAN' and 'ANNUAL CYCLOPEDIA.' I own the work and have with me here, and am in the habit of consulting it every day to my very great advantage. It is most admirable. J. L. MORLEY, U. S. Minister to the Court of St. James."

"Philadelphia, Nov. 1, 1869. 'I consider the New American Cyclopædia, published by D. Appleton & Co., vastly superior for the American reader to any other Cyclopædia now before the public. J. H. BISHOP SIMMONS."

"Boston, Oct. 26, 1869. 'I own Appleton's Cyclopædia, and use it constantly. It should be in every library, public and private—I would say in every house, within reach of every family. The young should use it. JAMES FAIRBANKS."

"I use the 'New American Cyclopædia' every day, generally many times a day. I think it the best work of the kind in existence. It is singularly well suited to families. The children who grow up in a house where there is a copy of it within reach, can hardly escape becoming well-informed persons. I value it very highly, and am glad of this opportunity of testifying my gratitude. CHARLES SUMNER."

"Tribune Office, N. Y. City, Oct. 30, 1869. 'My Dear Sir: I have used the 'New American Cyclopædia' since the first volume came into existence, and deem it the best work of the kind in print. Yours, &c., HORACE GREEN."

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

CITY NOTES.

—Sunday was one of the perfect days of the year—bright with sunshine, a deliciously cool and clear atmosphere, and no dust.

—Clergymen were numerous at the Roundout Presbyterian Church at the Sunday forenoon service, five being present—one in the pulpit and four in the audience.

—The Wiltwyck Sunday School had a picnic on Saturday near the Alms House. A Freeman man rode past the place while the picnic was going on, and he was struck by the inscription on the banner displayed, which was "Feed my Lambs."

Coal Arrivals.
Saturday 75 canal barges laden with 9,521 tons of coal reached tide water at Edenville through the Delaware & Hudson canal.

Amount Lost.
The friends and acquaintances of Prof. Doulittle in this city will be pleased to learn that his loss by the burglarizing of his residence at New Brunswick, N. J., was not as great as he had reason to fear. The robbers carried off $18 in money, a suit of clothes and several other articles.

Not True.
Mr. Smiley, proprietor of the Mohawk Mountain House, denies that he has made the announcement that he can receive no applications for accommodations on Saturdays and Sundays. On the contrary all who come are welcome and the best accommodations possible (the house being well filled) given them.

A Contradiction.
The following marriage notice appeared in the issue of The Freeman on the 16th instant: KOLLANSER-DE VERE—At Saratoga, by Rev. Dr. Clark, August 15th, Mr. Charles Kollanser of Rhinebeck to Miss Nellie De Vere of Dayton, Ohio.

A telegram from Rhinebeck, received on Saturday evening, were requested to contradict the announcement of said marriage, as "there was a mistake." The notice was left at this office by a man unknown to us.

Obituary.
Captain James Beebe, whom many of our older residents will remember as the handsome and very popular captain of the steamers Emerald and North America, dying between this city and New York a number of years ago, died on Thursday last at Great Barrington, Mass. Captain Beebe at one time, after leaving the river, was the head of the freight department of the Hudson River Railroad in New York city.

Good Hotel Stand for Sale.
We have often had occasion to advert to the necessity of a good hotel in the upper part of this city, but until the present time a suitable site could not be obtained. This difficulty is in our opinion now removed, as we understand that the Esplanade property, corner of Main and Wall streets, is now offered for sale. As to its suitability for the purpose we suppose there can be but one opinion, as its size, combined with its central position, eminently fit it for this use.

The Freeman Astonishes the Austrians.
Mr. William E. Dubois, son of Josiah Dubois, a native of the States in this city, who is now traveling in Europe, is writing home from Prague, Austria, under a late date, says, "I tell Mr. Fowles I opened one of a package of Weekly Freeman in a coffee house here, and all the people looked at it in astonishment on account of its size, asked where in the name of common sense such a paper was printed. The papers here are all small."

Lost and Found.
On Saturday morning Theodore Griggs, one of the Freeman force, drew ten dollars of his pay and putting it in one of his vest pockets, left the office and went to Weaver's restaurant, where he partook of breakfast, and after finishing his repast he stepped up to the cashier's desk to pay for it, when, to his utter astonishment, he discovered his money was gone.—Griggs immediately went back over the way he had taken to Weaver's and there, to his utter surprise, he found his money. He went with the money to the cashier and received it, and he was very much pleased to find that the money was still in his pocket.

Kerosene Explosion.
A special dispatch to the Freeman on Saturday morning last, gives the following account of the explosion in the kerosene lamp in the office of the Freeman on Saturday morning last. The explosion occurred at about 10 o'clock, and was caused by a kerosene lamp which had been left burning in the office. The explosion was very violent, and caused considerable damage to the office. The cause of the explosion was a kerosene lamp which had been left burning in the office. The explosion was very violent, and caused considerable damage to the office.

Along the River.
All the ice has been removed from the Mutual Company's house at Barrington, and shipped to New York. The Livingston ice house has not yet been opened.

Cambridge Lasher of Germantown was drowned in Livingston creek on Thursday while bathing. Being unable to swim and getting beyond his depth were the causes of his drowning.

The first load of freight over the Rhinebeck & Connecticut Railroad was a load of straw belonging to Mr. J. B. Risk. It was taken from Red Hook to Rhinebeck and sent to New York by the large Enterprise.

Lover Red Hook is without a doctor. Of the two who formerly practiced there, one died and the other has moved away. The inhabitants do not seem to be much alarmed in consequence.—Freemans Press.

The above is about as correct as most of the items the Press receives from the as-tute persons in this village who claim to be its correspondent. We have at present two good physicians in our village, and although one of them contemplates leaving, another has already been engaged to take his place.—Red Hook Journal.

In the ship-yard of Mr. James S. Dean, at Red Hook, there are abundant indications of a brick business. In various capacities there are one hundred and twenty-five men at work. Mr. Dean is now rebuilding the United States Revenue cutter Nansamond, not before it was needed. The Nansamond is a side-wheeler, with beam engine. Lightship No. 23 is being overhauled, and put in order for steaming the weather of all seasons. The steam launch Oliver Dodd Byron, a beautiful little propeller of fifteen tons, is on the ways and will soon be ready for launching. This craft will, doubtless, constitute a very fine means of enjoyment about the Bay. It is valued at about $3,000. The lighter Gem, belonging to Johnson & Hammond, is hauled up on the railway, undergoing the process of rebuilding.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Arrivals at the Overlook.

NEW YORK—John W. Taylor, L. Walter, H. M. Halsey, W. M. Demarest, James P. Lorey, H. Henke, William Fergusson, Wilbur F. Brown.

—The Rockland Journal asserts that when Haverstraw obtains decent drinking water and a railroad, maybe Nyack will have her streets lighted.

Personal.
George W. Davis, the lively city editor of the Poughkeepsie Eagle, was in the lower portion of the city on Saturday forenoon for a short time. George was wandering along the docks taking notes as to the number of vessels loading coal, as a means of estimating how many coal tons per day that bridge will have to accommodate.

Excursion from Moresville.
The excursion from Moresville on Saturday last over the N. Y. & C. Railroad to this city and thence to Poughkeepsie in the fine steamer James W. Baldwin, arrived at the steamer's wharf at half-past eleven in a train of eleven cars, seven of which were filled with the excursionists, numbering about five hundred of as respectable and nice looking people as ever visited our city. After alighting from the train they immediately embarked on board the Baldwin, and after a little detention to look up their hand, which had, in some unaccountable manner, gone astray, the steamer sailed away with all her colors flying, and receiving the greetings of the steam craft in the creek, the foundry and cement works.—The day was a most delightful one, there being no dust on the railroad and a fresh breeze upon the river, the last of which called for a remark from a bright-eyed, ruddy-cheeked maid, who evidently was not used to the regular nautical, she was seated with a little group of lads and lasses about the stateroom hall on the hurricane deck, where "the shrill wind whistled fore," and got to talking liberties with the skirts of the lasses, when, after a struggle to keep her garments in modest position and finding it unavailing, she exclaimed, "Oh, don't don't don't stay out on the stoop any longer; come on in the house."

After a pleasant run to Poughkeepsie, where the boat landed, and then made a circuit in the river to leave the dock clear for the Albany boats Daniel Drew and Chamney Vibbard, she again came to Main street wharf and receiving those who had landed steamed back to this city, where she arrived at three o'clock. The train was in waiting and as soon as the excursionists were seated in the cars they were rapidly whirled away on their homeward journey. We hear that some of the excursionists who landed from the Baldwin at Poughkeepsie rushed on board the Daniel Drew by mistake when she landed at that city, and were carried off down the river before their mistake was discovered; others got on board the C. Vibbard, but as they were landed at Rhinebeck and came to this city before the train left they suffered no inconvenience. The excursion was accompanied by a band, but for some unknown reason they didn't make "a toot" in this berg, either on their arrival or departure.

EDITOR FREEMAN.—In your issue of Wednesday you refer to a mistake made by a drugist on Wall street. As I was in charge of the drug store at the corner of Wall and North Front streets I deem it my duty to state to you, and the public generally, that a prescription of the kind mentioned in The Freeman article was never at that store. I also remark that after twenty-four hours' experience (having had charge of the Ward's Island Dispensary for nearly two years, and keeping a drug store in New York and this city since 1857) I have been so fortunate as never to have made an error in compounding a prescription. As Mr. Elling has been unfortunate I would like to call the attention of physicians to one thing, viz: write your prescription legibly, as I have frequently seen prescriptions so obscurely written that it was almost impossible for the apothecary to decipher them. The apothecary is a check on the physician, to a certain extent, and unless capable negligence occurs, idly, gently, for we are all human.

EDITOR, DAILY FREEMAN:—Dr. Loughran in a labored article has seen fit to assail me through the columns of your paper. I propose to say a few words in reply to the gentleman, which must close the controversy, so far as I am concerned. First, I can prove by three credible witnesses that Dr. Loughran stated in his presence the prescription given me by a physician referred to in his article. Second, I have stated in substance the same to others and also that the child had symptoms of convulsions when he last visited it. Thirdly, the Dr. says I put four drops of tincture of camphor in the prescription. I can prove the statement untrue. Fourthly, I am prepared to produce the testimony of three physicians in this city to the effect that there was not sufficient camphor in the prescription, if properly administered, to have killed the child. The prescription of Dr. Loughran, while their stock of self-conceit does not. In the Doctor's effort he says, "on a personal interview with him yesterday he received my opinion most emphatically as to the cause of the child's death, and if not yet satisfied a second call will convince him." In reply I would say I have stated in substance the same to others and also that the child had symptoms of convulsions when he last visited it. Thirdly, the Dr. says I put four drops of tincture of camphor in the prescription. I can prove the statement untrue. The prescription of Dr. Loughran, while their stock of self-conceit does not. In the Doctor's effort he says, "on a personal interview with him yesterday he received my opinion most emphatically as to the cause of the child's death, and if not yet satisfied a second call will convince him." In reply I would say I have stated in substance the same to others and also that the child had symptoms of convulsions when he last visited it. Thirdly, the Dr. says I put four drops of tincture of camphor in the prescription. I can prove the statement untrue. Fourthly, I am prepared to produce the testimony of three physicians in this city to the effect that there was not sufficient camphor in the prescription, if properly administered, to have killed the child.
